

Samantha was selected as one of the 20 Presidential Scholars in the Arts this year for her success and accomplishments as a classical pianist. She was selected for this honor by virtue of being a national Finalist in the NFAA Arts Recognition and Talent Search (ARTS) program, a program in which 6,524 high school students applied to in 2006. Samantha and her fellow Presidential Scholars in the performing arts will be featured in a showcase performance during the Salute to the Presidential Scholars at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

Samantha, who will graduate as valedictorian of The Harker School in Sunnyvale this June, began her piano studies at the age of 5. Currently, she is enrolled in the Preparatory Division at the San Francisco Conservatory of Music, where she was named an "Honorary Distinction" student, the highest award presented by the Preparatory Division. Additionally, Samantha was named the California state winner of the 2005 MTNA (Music Teachers National Association) Senior Piano Competition, has performed in the Weill Hall at Carnegie Hall as winner of the Russian-American International Festival and will be broadcast as a soloist on WQXR radio's Young Artist's Showcase this June.

I am proud to stand here today to recognize Samantha for her accomplishments as an exceptional artist and student. I urge Samantha to continue to take an interest in the performing arts, as artistic and creative innovation is a crucial component of America's cultural fabric, and I wish her the best of luck as she continues her education at Harvard this fall.

IN HONOR OF JOHN C. HALL, SEPTEMBER 15, 1953–FEBRUARY 25, 2006

HON. XAVIER BECERRA

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, May 25, 2006

Mr. BECERRA. Mr. Speaker, I rise today with profound sadness to pay tribute to Mr. John Hall, a dear friend, a devoted community leader and a passionate champion for America's working men and women, who passed away suddenly of heart failure on the evening of Saturday, February 25, 2006. He was the loving son of Joann Hall and the devoted father of his only child, Katrina Susan Hall.

Born September 15, 1953, in Los Angeles, John was a lifelong Angeleno devoted to his family, his trade and his community. He began his career as an apprentice plumber in 1980 with the United Association of Plumbers Local 78 in Los Angeles. John quickly mastered the skills of a journeyman plumber and became an active member of UA Plumbers Local 78. While working at his trade during the day, he donated his time as a plumbing instructor at night at the union's training center. John eventually worked his way up to Business Manager of Local 78 in 1995, a position from which he advocated for the preservation of pensions and health coverage for working people. John was also known for his civic participation, serving honorably on the Contractors State Licensing Board following his appointment by Governor Gray Davis.

It was fitting with John's generous character and sense of responsibility that he volunteered much of his personal time to the charitable organization Big Brothers of Greater Los Angeles. He spent many years as a big brother to Sean Wall, imparting his wisdom and leadership skills onto the next generation.

John was highly admired by the labor community and policy-makers alike for his efforts to improve the lives of working families, and for his warm personality and generous spirit. John was a selfless leader, who dedicated himself completely to his craft, his union and all those who looked to him for support and guidance.

Mr. Speaker, it is with heartfelt sorrow, yet great admiration and appreciation, that I ask my colleagues to join me today in saluting John C. Hall. May his generosity and dedication to improving conditions for working families be remembered and carried on by those of us who were fortunate enough to call him "friend."

CONGRESS REAPS WHAT IT SOWS

HON. C. L. "BUTCH" OTTER

OF IDAHO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, May 25, 2006

Mr. OTTER. Mr. Speaker, there has been an awful lot of talk the last few days about the FBI's Saturday night raid on the office of a Democrat U.S. Congressman. It's tough for me to get too excited about the howls of protest from members of Congress. I understand their concerns about protecting the independence of the legislative branch and possible abuse of executive powers. But it makes me wonder: Where were these voices of outrage and righteous indignation when we learned the executive branch was monitoring the telephone conversations of ordinary Americans? Where were they when the executive branch sought, and the USA PATRIOT ACT granted, more power to search the homes and businesses of ordinary Americans without notification? At least we know there was a legitimate warrant issued by a judge for the search of the Congressman's office. Are my honorable colleagues suggesting that members of Congress or the institution itself should be treated differently in the eyes of the law than those who hold the most important position in America—that of "citizen"? I hope not.

HONORING JUNE KENYON ON HER RETIREMENT, HEAD OF CASEWORK, CONROE DISTRICT OFFICE

HON. KEVIN BRADY

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, May 25, 2006

Mr. BRADY of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor June Kenyon upon her retirement from my district office staff.

Beginning in 1997 when I first took office, June Kenyon brought to the field office in Humble, Texas her wealth of knowledge and experience gleaned from working for my predecessor, the Honorable Jack Fields. Not only did June sign on as Office Manager but took on the role of Head of Casework to help constituents. I was blessed to have June's expertise and long record of commitment to constituents in helping me confront the challenges of being a newly elected Congressman.

For the next 9 years, June excelled at her roles and increased her knowledge of the inner workings of Federal agencies to the point that some even invited her to brief their staffs on the intricacies of casework with Congressional offices.

June's command of the system and successful resolution of thousands of cases are a tribute to her professionalism and relentlessness in serving the residents of the 8th Congressional District.

Extremely hard-working, painstakingly fair, exceedingly knowledgeable—these are qualities June has not only honed but put at the disposal of constituents as she advocates for them and resolves difficult issues. But it was in the challenges faced by our constituents in the aftermath of Hurricane Rita this past fall that June's abilities shown brightly as she led the efforts to resolve quickly and systematically over 1,000 claims for expedited assistance from FEMA. Working long hours, interfacing with local officials and aid agencies, June contributed significantly to the ability of Southeast Texans to survive the aftermath of this devastating storm and begin the recovery process.

While June has always been a diligent staffer, the last 18 months have created personal challenges for her, including a long commute to Conroe after redistricting led to closing the Humble office. The redistricting also meant serving a different and larger geographic area. June did not miss a beat in adapting to the new conditions, including participating in the Mobile Office taking caseworkers to constituents in the small towns of East Texas.

In the years I have worked with June, I have come to know a committed Republican activist and a woman of broad and varied interests which I hope she will pursue in the time afforded by retirement. From her native New York, June brought with her to the Houston area, a distinctive Long Island accent and a deep-seated love of music. Although she has yet to sing for our staff, June has shared with us reminiscences as varied as singing classical music at Carnegie Hall and the blues at
